WESTPORT RESOURCES EXTENDS ITS OUTREACH TO FLORIDA
FORMING STRATEGIC ALLIANCE WITH EASTMAN INVESTMENT ADVISORS, LLC

WESTPORT, CT – November 4, 2010 - Westport Resources Management, Inc. [Westport Resources], a leading financial advisor serving individuals, families, municipalities and institutions around the world, announced today a new strategic alliance with Eastman Investment Advisors, LLC [Eastman], a firm providing core investment advisory services exclusively to high-net-worth families.

In addition to enabling Westport Resources to extend its outreach to Naples, Florida -- one of the state's most affluent communities -- the alliance will benefit both firms providing each with a valuable strategic partner to enhance their respective business. Through the partnership, Eastman will also be able to offer to its clientele, primarily comprised of high-net-worth families, access to Westport Resources' independent, objective financial advisory capabilities, portfolio management team and award winning investment strategies.

John Adams Vaccaro, Westport Resources' Founder and CEO stated, "This highly complementary alliance underscores Westport's focus to expand our wealth management business. We are delighted to grant Eastman access to our investment team and enable them to take advantage of our infrastructure to optimize their advisory capabilities and expand their business opportunities. Undoubtedly, Eastman's clients will greatly benefit by having access to a broader array of investment capabilities that Westport brings to this alliance."

"This partnership, enables Westport to achieve two key goals: establish its brand in the affluent Naples, Florida market; and enable Eastman to further leverage its strategy of providing highly personal, local wealth management services," said George Keith, Westport's President. "Both firms share excellent reputations, similar focus on superior investment performance and client service, which makes this a strategically sound business alliance."

"As Westport continues its consistent growth, we focus on partnering with best in class financial advisory firms that can highly benefit from our award winning investment strategies, client-centric culture, quantitative driven methodology and unwavering commitment to client service," Mr. Keith concluded.

Eastman's Managing Director, James Eastman, who is a former Smith Barney Director of Family Wealth Management and Senior Vice President, explained that the key strategic factors that motivated the partnership, include the two firms' shared vision of the family office model that supports alliances with CPAs; Westport's impeccable record of stability, reputation, consulting vs. product oriented approach and affiliation with Pershing, a Bank of New York Mellon company -- one of the industry's most sound and respected clearing firms.

"We look forward to bringing our combined expertise and the high-quality investment strategies of Westport Resources to an expanded set of clients, as a result of this powerful and complementary new relationship. This alliance is an important step toward strengthening our brand for objective and comprehensive wealth management offering to our affluent clientele and to further build our presence in our market."
